WHF Foundation Pleased to Announce 2017 Scholarship Grant Winner

Women in Housing and Finance Foundation (WHFF) is excited to announce that through its partnership with Washington Trinity University, another scholarship grant has been awarded to a deserving student for the 2017-2018 school year. This year's recipient is Jana Arias, an accounting major in her senior year of studies.

After graduating in May 2018, Ms. Arias intends to work in the accounting field with a plan to become a Certified Public Accountant. An outstanding student with a 3.917 GPA, she hails from the Czech Republic. In a note of thanks that she sent to WHFF, Ms. Arias conveyed the positive impact the scholarship has made on her life. "I would also like to thank you for your continued support of Trinity students," she added.

The scholarship grant is made possible by the generous financial support of the WHFF by its members and by sponsoring organizations. Since 2005, WHFF has made grants totaling $30,000 for scholarships, 100% of which goes to support a continuing education female student selected by Trinity. The partnership is an enduring example of WHFF and Trinity's shared commitment to education and opportunity. By helping to ease financial burdens, the WHFF scholarship empowers recipients to better learn, gain confidence, and prepare for a career path that sets them up for sustainable success and economic strength.

WHFF wishes Ms. Arias much continued success in her educational and professional journey. "WHFF looks forward to its continuing partnership with Trinity Washington University long into the future," added WHFF President Mary Martha Fortney.
